DEEP ROOTS

The roots of the Wilson County Fair reach far beyond the barns, arenas, and exhibit buildings. They are found in the people who have invested their time, knowledge, and encouragement into generations of exhibitors. They are found in parents who stay up late helping prepare projects, grandparents who pass down traditions, volunteers who give countless hours, and friends who cheer one another on from the sidelines.

Every year, new memories are planted alongside old traditions. Young exhibitors become mentors. First-time participants become lifelong supporters. What begins as a livestock project, a photography exhibit, or a baking entry often grows into confidence, responsibility, leadership, and friendships that last a lifetime. As we celebrate 155 years of the Wilson County Fair, we are reminded that our greatest legacy isn't measured by the number of ribbons won, but by the relationships we cultivate and the lives we impact. Long after the fairgrounds grow quiet and the banners are packed away, those connections continue to shape our community.

This year, take time to celebrate the people who have helped you grow. Offer encouragement to someone just beginning their journey. Thank a volunteer, mentor, or family member who has made a difference. Together, we continue building a fair where our roots grow stronger with each passing generation.

Because the strongest roots are grown through relationships, not ribbons.

RELATIONSHIPS OVER RIBBONS

In 4-H, the memories that matter most aren't tied to a ribbon—they're woven into the friendships we build, the mentors who believe in us, and the laughter shared behind the scenes. It's the early mornings, the teamwork, the last-minute touches, and the quiet encouragement when things don't go as planned. While the thrill of a win fades, the bonds we form last a lifetime. Ribbons are wonderful, but relationships are the real prize. They remind us why we started, who stood beside us, and how far we've come. That's the legacy of 4-H—people over prizes, always.

HUSTLE & BUSTLE

Fair season is officially in full swing, and with it comes the energy, excitement, and yes—the hustle and bustle! Between late-night project finishing, early morning chores, and the flurry of getting exhibits ready, it's easy to feel overwhelmed. But in the midst of the chaos, it's important to remember one thing: a successful fair doesn't happen on its own. It takes all of us —4-Hers, parents, volunteers, leaders, superintendents, and fair board members—working together with a spirit of cooperation and a willingness to help wherever and whenever needed.

Maybe that means sweeping up after a meeting, answering a new member's question, jumping in to help at a weigh-in station, or just offering a kind word when someone's day isn't going as planned. Every little effort matters. The fair is more than ribbons and results—it's a reflection of the values we teach all year long: responsibility, community, and teamwork. So as the hustle builds and the schedules fill up, let's keep showing up for each other. Together, we can make this year's fair not only successful—but meaningful for everyone involved.

FAIR JOBS

SUPERS

Superintendents: We would like to encourage those 4-H parents who are also Fair Superintendents to help their 4-H'ers enter their exhibits BEFORE check-in time. (Place items for entry in that area where they are usually entered with slip of paper with names and class attached). It is important that you are at your area to help others enter at check-in time.

HELP!!!

We are looking for volunteers to be the superintendent for several different projects. If you would be will, let us know.

BOOTHS

Booths may be set up on Tuesday July 21st from 10am- 5pm and Wednesday the 22nd can be finished up

This will include all 4-H club booths & project booths.

LIVESTOCK PREMIUMS

Individuals who are contacting businesses and livestock premium buyers are kindly reminded to ensure that all donations and premium contributions are submitted no later than July 17th. Timely collection and submission are essential for proper recognition and processing. Thank you for your efforts in supporting our youth and the success of this year's fair.

Record Book Do's and Don'ts

We know Fair is front and center right now—but don't forget about your record books! While you're busy baking, sewing, crafting, or caring for your animals, be sure to snap a few action photos. Judges love seeing you doing the work, not just the final product.

Also, keep track of the time you've spent on your projects—it's a big part of telling your 4-H story. Even small moments, like daily feeding or practicing your talk, can add up and show your growth. Taking a few minutes now to write things down will make filling out your record later much easier.

Record books don't have to be stressful, and we're happy to help if you need a hand. Just give us a call!

SPEAKING OF RECORD BOOKS

Record books can be completed by either using the PDF Form Fillable or the Zsuite online version that can be found on the website.

1. Determine which projects you will fill a record book out for: Please review the complete Record Book Project List in order to fill out the proper record book, found on our website. (example: youth in the forestry project should complete a record book on Plant Science or youth in canning should title their record book foods & nutrition..)
2. Create a notebook (4-H record book folder or three ring binder) for EACH project record book. Record books should be separated by project area (i.e. folder for Beef, folder for clothing, etc.) Each books should have all the pages, offices can help make copies of current year's personal page and current year's permanent record. Separating the books into different folders allows for quicker and easier judging. Tabs for sorting the book are appreciated but please don't use page protectors.
3. Select your age division to fill out the proper paperwork to complete your record book! The pilot record books are broken into three age divisions based on 4-H age. Youth may compete in high age divisions but not lower. Youth must fill out the paperwork for the age division they wish to compete in.
4. Submit to your club leader by their deadline for signatures and sorting. Your club leader will submit to the office by the October 1st deadline.

Members will fill out record books for each project area they wish to be considered for awards. Each book will be turned in with a separate folder to include the following: A personal page, permanent records, story, record sheet with photos.

Juniors: Age 7-9 Intermediate Age: 10-13 Senior Age: 14 & up

Record book pages can be found on the Wilson County 4-H website: <https://www.wildcatdistrict.k-state.edu/4-h/record-keeping/index.html>

EVERY RIBBON HAS A STORY

Who Helped You Earn That Ribbon?

Every ribbon tells a story—but it's rarely the story of just one person.

Behind every exhibit is a parent who spent countless evenings in the barn, a grandparent who shared years of wisdom, a club leader who patiently answered questions, a volunteer who gave their time, or a friend who offered encouragement when things didn't go as planned. Success at the fair is built on a foundation of people who choose to invest in others.

As exhibitors, it's easy to focus on the project in front of us. We remember the hours spent practicing showmanship, perfecting a recipe, tending a garden, or capturing the perfect photograph. But those moments didn't happen in isolation. They were made possible by people who believed in us, challenged us, and celebrated each step along the way.

The Wilson County Fair has always been about more than competition. For 155 years, it has been a place where knowledge is passed from one generation to the next, where lifelong friendships are formed, and where communities come together with a shared purpose: helping young people grow.

This fair season, take a moment to look beyond the ribbons. Thank the parent who drove you to meetings, the sibling who helped feed animals before sunrise, the superintendent who answered your questions, the judge who offered thoughtful feedback, and the volunteers who work behind the scenes to make the fair possible. Their encouragement and dedication are part of every accomplishment celebrated at the fair. One day, today's exhibitors will become tomorrow's parents, leaders, mentors, and volunteers. The cycle of learning and giving back is what keeps our fair strong and our traditions alive.

As we celebrate Back to Our Roots, let's remember that our deepest roots aren't planted in trophies or banners—they're planted in the relationships that inspire us, support us, and remind us that no one succeeds alone.

Because while ribbons may fade with time, the people who helped us earn them leave an impact that lasts a lifetime.
